Daybreak is a ranch designed around the small pieces of hospitality architecture that most plans skip. A seventeen-foot Great Room with a nook and a covered patio out the back. An optional butler's pantry between kitchen and dining. An optional pocket office off the owner's entry for the household's paperwork life. A primary suite with two full bath layouts, each including an optional rain shower head. Downstairs, a twenty-six-foot rec room, two additional bedrooms, and — tucked into the corner — a nearly-nineteen-foot Bedroom 4, the most generous secondary bedroom in any Classic ranch, optionally configured with a private bath.

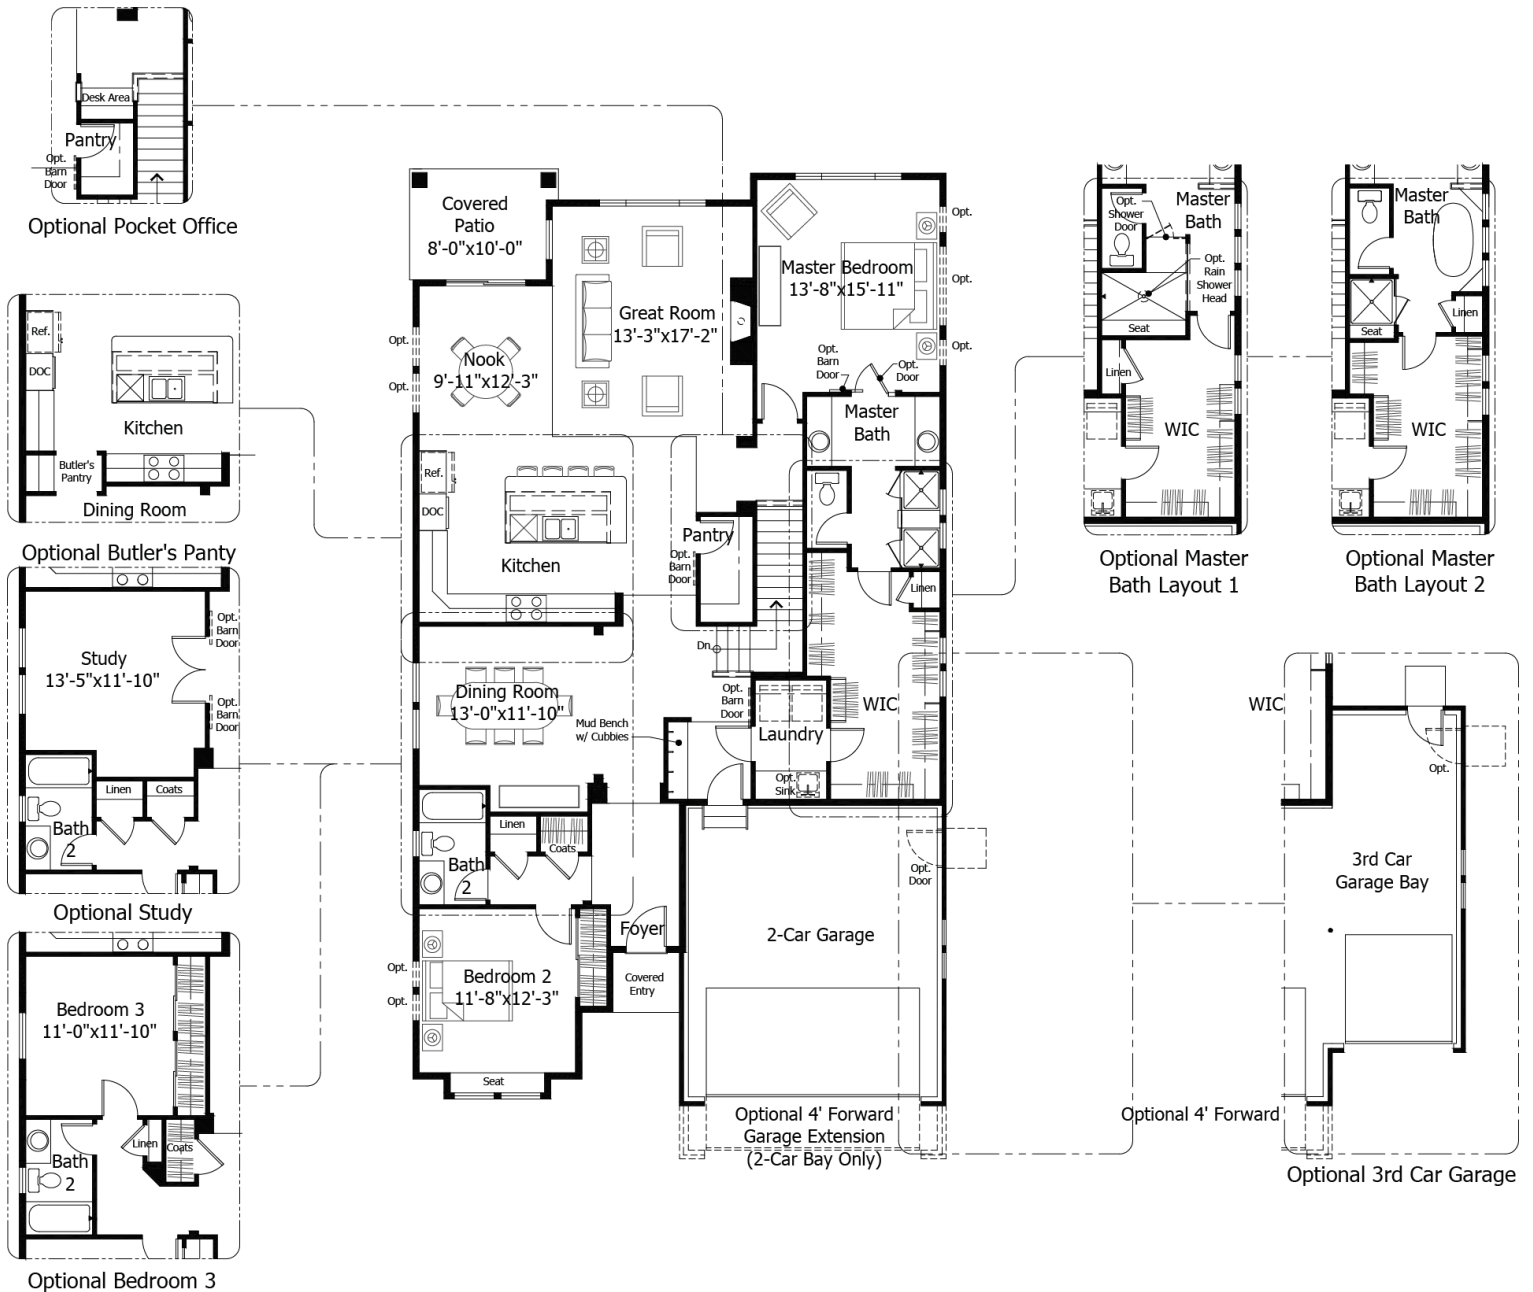

All square footage is approximate. Renderings are artist's conceptions and may vary slightly from the actual home. Homes may be built in reverse of plans shown, depending on site conditions. Minor architectural changes may be made occasionally at the option of the builder. Please contact your Sales Consultant for details.
