The 221 is Midtown's smallest three-story — and its most disciplined argument for vertical living. Ground floor holds the car, the coats, and a flex room for office, gym, media, or guests. Second floor is the entertaining floor: fifteen-foot living room open to a private front deck, island kitchen, dedicated dining, and a powder for anyone who doesn't need to see bedrooms. Third floor is sleeping — square primary suite with walk-in closet, secondary bedroom with its own walk-in, laundry between them. End units extend the dining and add an option for a third full bath. Stacked, lifted, lit.

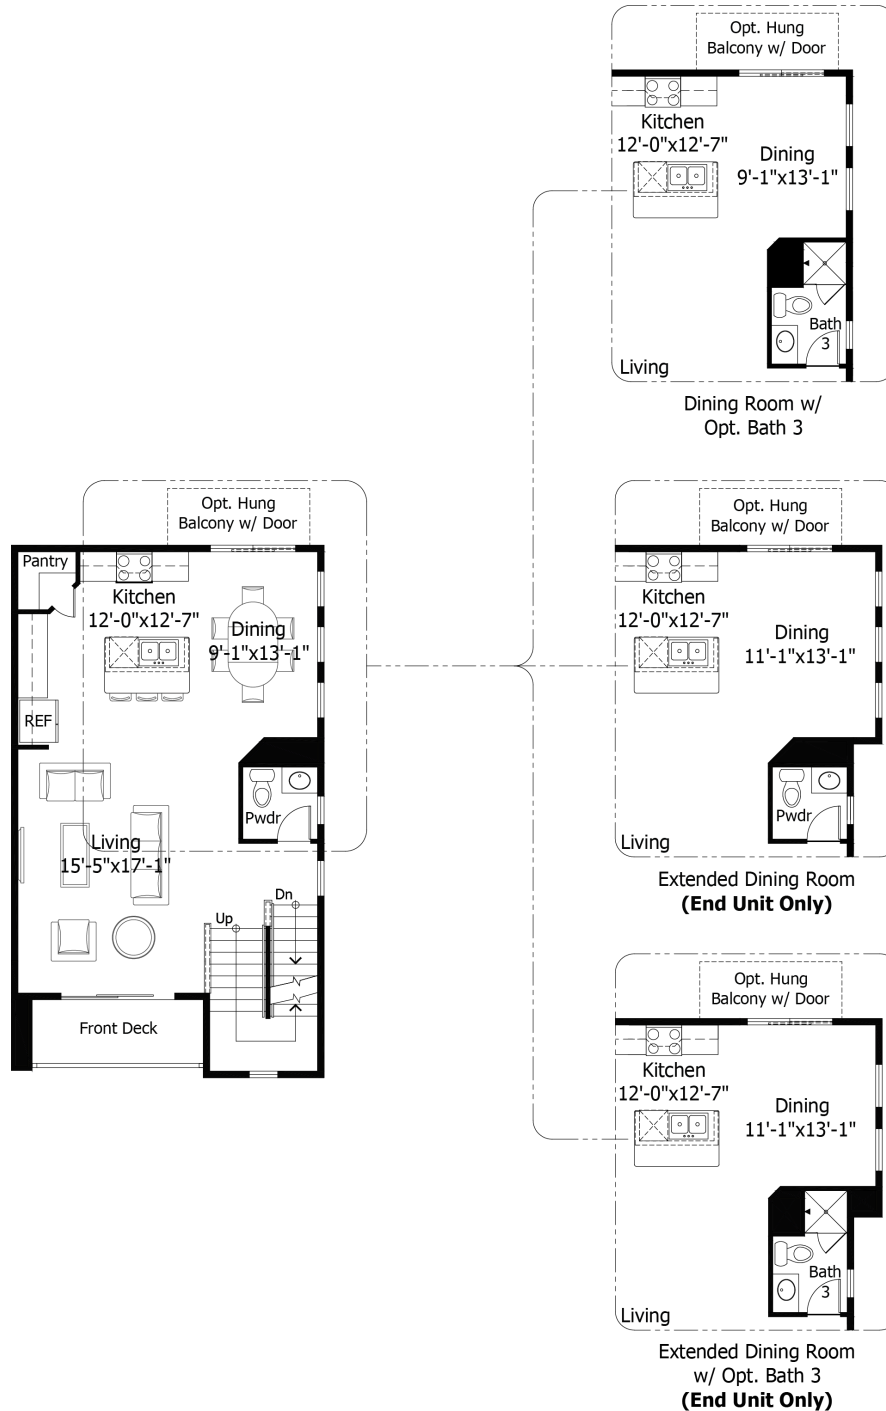

All square footage is approximate. Renderings are artist's conceptions and may vary slightly from the actual home. Homes may be built in reverse of plans shown, depending on site conditions. Minor architectural changes may be made occasionally at the option of the builder. Please contact your Sales Consultant for details.
