Sundance is the ranch that admits the outdoors is a room too. The Outdoor Living space — twelve by thirteen, roofed, integrated — sits right beside the nook and the great room, drawn as a standard piece of the floor plan. Elect the multi-slide ninety-degree glass door and two adjacent walls disappear on cue, dissolving the corner between the kitchen nook and the outdoor room into a single continuous space. Colorado evenings suddenly have somewhere to go. Downstairs, the basement finishes to estate-sized ambition: a rec room stretching thirty feet, two standard bedrooms, an optional sixth with private bath.
